This handbook has been prepared with the knowledge that Guidance and Counseling services are indispensable in any institution of learning. They become increasingly important in the context of students intending to be professional teachers who will handle learners faced with multiple adjustment challenges in tertiary institutions and secondary schools. Institutions of learning prepare learners for areas such as; overall growth, academic and personal-social problems, and challenges related to holistic development. In assisting the students to identify and recognize their specific areas of excellence and to enable them match these with their chosen careers; students should be equipped with knowledge and skills that prepare them for the world of work. Providing students with relevant information and bridging the gap between them and the job market, this book will provide invaluable information on life skills to enable them to cope with the changing world of diverse culture. The modern school is plagued with myriad problems requiring teachers to be well versed with the current trends in education, changing culture and professional expertise is required to address common institutional challenges including drug abuse, adolescence-related ills, rape, HIV/AIDS, poor academic performance, truancy, bullying, depression, peer pressure among others. All these require regular and urgent attention from the school counselors. It is hoped that lecturers, tutors and students will find the book useful. The areas covered in the handbook are tailored to assist student teachers preparing to handle students in tertiary colleges, secondary and primary schools.

"If you work with college-bound students, this book must be on your desk at all times." With more college options and higher college costs, students and parents need the advice and support of a well-informed school counselor to guide them through the college selection process. College Counseling for School Counselors gives counselors everything needed to build a successful college counseling program, no matter how many students they work with. After creating a framework for a strong curriculum, College Counseling for School Counselors shows how to explore all college options with students and families, including options for students with special needs and talents. The follow-up activities in each chapter give counselors resources that bring the ideas to life, and a three year calendar shows counselors how to introduce every idea at a manageable pace, building to a comprehensive college counseling program and strong individual college plans for every student. Busy, caring counselors will find everything they need in College Counseling for School Counselors to improve their college counseling program, and reach every student they work with.

The first practical guide of its kind that helps students transition smoothly from high school to college The transition from high school—and home—to college can be stressful. Students and parents often arrive on campus unprepared for what college is really like. Academic standards and expectations are different from high school; families aren't present to serve as "scaffolding" for students; and first-years have to do what they call "adulting." Nothing in the college admissions process prepares students for these new realities. As a result, first-year college students report higher stress, more mental health issues, and lower completion rates than in the past. In fact, up to one third of first-year college students will not return for their second year—and colleges are reporting an increase in underprepared first-year students. How to College is here to help. Professors Andrea Malkin Brenner and Lara Schwartz guide first-year students and their families through the transition process, during the summer after high school graduation and throughout the school year, preparing students to succeed and thrive as they transition and adapt to college. The book draws on the authors' experience teaching, writing curricula, and designing programs for thousands of first-year college students over decades.

This book effectively presents an insightful blend of theoretical ideas, practical realities and ways of engaging with children and adolescents. Guidance and Counselling for Children and Adolescents in Schools provides a rich understanding of the challenges, problems and difficulties that children and adolescents face in adjusting to the contexts in which they live, grow and study. All teacher-education programmes expansively define the role of teachers and their responsibility towards guiding and counselling students. This book serves to help student teachers and in-service teachers to understand their role as counsellors and build perspectives about the mental health concerns of students. Rendering ground realities within theoretical approaches to psychotherapy and mental health, it serves as a useful resource for practitioners and researchers in education. The book is based on more than three decades of experience of the authors in the fields of education and psychology and experiential understanding of contemporary times. Key Features: • Unique approach in correlating real-life situations and experiences to the explanation of theories •Builds understanding about guidance, counselling and mental health issues through a theory–practice interface •Provides anecdotes, case vignettes and narratives to aid self-directed learning of counselling skills •Couched in the contemporary Indian socio-cultural setting

Today's college students present a diverse set of career decision-making needs and challenges. Career counselors can greatly enhance their effectiveness when working with this demographic group by increasing their understanding of career development theory, research, and practice. With more than 200 beneficial and practical career counseling strategies, this guide offers the most practical and comprehensive guide in this field.

The purpose of this handbook is to assist high school students and college freshmen to make objective career decisions, and choose appropriate courses and training towards the achievement of their career goals. According to Frank Parsons (1854-1908), who was known as the father of vocational counselling, ideal career choices are based on matching personal traits (aptitude, abilities, resources, personality) with job factors (wages, environment etc.) to produce the best of the trait/factor theory of career development. In order to make decisions toward appropriate career choice, students need career information, which may include self-assessment tools, to help them develop their self-awareness, opportunity awareness and career education which students receive in high school. The curriculum in high school includes career planning, where students are given a wealth of information about career and college planning. School counsellors assist high school students in setting goals, researching options, and long range career and college planning. This book offers a simple and practical self-assessment tool to help students match their personality characteristics to occupations and make appropriate career and training decisions. Students would be able to take courses that would lead them towards their career goals. Parents would also benefit from this book, and would be able to guide their children in making good career decisions.

It is essential that students in the educational institutions are helped and guided to take up courses and careers suited to their needs, interests and aptitudes, so that they become efficient workers. For optimum individual, social and national development, guidance and counseling needs to be made a regular and continuous activity in University level.Academic guidance and counselling is mainly on the curriculum-related needs of the learner. Courses to enrol, how to carry out assignments and projects, how to prepare for examinations, effective study habits, and how to remedy weaknesses in particular courses are some of these needs. These forms the core of the business the learner routinely engages in academic institution. The finer focus of this booklet will, therefore, be on this category of guidance and counselling service.The focus of our attention should be to determine what kind of non-specialised guidance and counselling service higher education counsellors can offer in order to promote meaningful learning.This book has explored all areas that need attention for a college and University Student. This book is good for both the lecturer and the student.Good for all institutes
